Note, 01.10.09, by PointyHat: The following article was originally written by Jeff Wells, and published on his Rigorous Intuition blog in August 2005. Since it is, in my opinion, one of the most interesting articles written about Myatt, I reproduce it in full here, even though there are several factual errors, about Myatt, in the article. For instance, the interview once in the Hexagon Archive was with Stephen Cox, not Myatt; Cox was never even a member of the ONA (let alone its leader); and his Occult group had no connection to either the ONA or Myatt.

Nine Angles of Separation

" In the mid-90s, in an essay entitled "Death Before Dishonour," British neo-Nazi political philosopher David Myatt wrote:

To live and act like an Aryan - that is, with nobility of character - means upholding and living by this principle of Death Before Dishonour. Nothing else is more important - not personal happiness, not personal love, not personal comfort and wealth. This principle expresses the spirit, or ethos, of the Aryan warrior, and to be Aryan means to live like such a warrior, for however short a time.

Also, in "The Divine Revelation of Adolf Hitler":

Quintessentially, the revelation of Adolf Hitler has rendered all other religions obsolete. For this is the first and most important revelation of the cosmic Being - of the purpose of the cosmic Being. Other religions now belong to the past; they are historical curiosities.... All these religions are earth-bound; they do not seek to fulfil a Destiny among the stars, bringing more life, more consciousness.

At about the same time, Anton Long, Grandmaster of the British-based "traditional" Satanic group the Order of Nine Angles, wrote:

We uphold human culling as beneficial, for both the individual who does the culling (it being a character-building experience) and for our species in general, since culling by its nature removes the worthless and thus improves the stock. Naturally, there are proper ways to choose who is to be culled - each victim is chosen because they have shown themselves to be suitable. They are never chosen at random, as they are never "innocent."

Two years ago, in "The Perspective of Islam," radical theoretician and al Qaeda apologist Abdul Aziz wrote:

The majority of Westerners condemn martyrdom operations on the basis of the Western perspective, using Western criteria, failing to understand the Muslim belief that this life of ours is only a means, a test, and thus failing to understand that many Muslims are willing to give up their own lives in order to do their Islamic duty, trusting as these Muslims do in the judgement of Allah.... Our life here on this planet we call Earth is only an opportunity - never to return - to gain entry into Jannah and that one of the best means to gain such entry is to strive, and if necessary die, in the Cause of Allah.

What do these people have in common? Everything. They - and many more, besides - are the same person. Let's call him, for simplicity's sake, David Myatt. But what he is, there's nothing simple about that.

Combat 18 is a neo-Nazi org formed in 1991 to provide hooligan muscle for the racist British National Party. (Its "18" numerically represents "AH," the initials of Adolph Hitler.) Myatt has described himself as its political philosopher.

There's much suspicion, on the both the left and right, that Combat 18 "was created by Britain's internal security service MI5 to discredit the BNP while acting as a honey trap, or sting operation, designed to attract the most violent neo-Nazis in Britain into a single organization, where they could be monitored more easily." Its leader, Charlie Sargent, who was sentenced to life imprisonment in 1997 for the murder of another member, was also an alleged Special Branch informant.

Combat 18 splintered, with Myatt founding the most radical faction, the National Socialist Movement, which remained loyal to purported informant Sargent.

In 1999 NSM member David Copeland conducted a racist nail-bombing campaign which killed three people and injured 129. Myatt's "A Practical Guide to Aryan Revolution" was particularly formative to Copeland's thinking. In a profile of Copeland, BBC's Panorama determined:

"...the man whose ideas had more influence than most on Copeland was David Myatt from Worcestershire, founder member of the NSM and its first leader. He once said the Nazi movement needed people "prepared to fight, prepared to get their hands dirty, and perhaps spill some blood."

And though Combat 18 splintered under suspicion of members' motives and loyalties, it isn't quite finished yet being a bloody nuisance. A headline yesterday from Northern Ireland (where Combat 18 is reputed to be used by MI5 to infiltrate Loyalist paramilitaries): Neo-Nazis have threatened me, says Ulster assembly member John Dallat, who has received threats from Combat 18 to burn down his house and torch his office.

The Hexagon archives records an encounter with the unnamed leader of the "Order of Nine Angles" - apparently Myatt [\[Not, in fact, Myatt: See Editorial Note, above\]](#) - who supposedly co-authored a book with associate "Christos Beest" which likened the ONA "to a modern equivalent of the German Thule Society, precursor of the Nazi Party and responsible for a number of assassinations of dissenters...the reader is lead to believe that the group are busy 'culling human dross.'"

Hexagon, while refusing to disclose the name of the leader, found "a nucleus of four middle aged men surrounded by up to ten younger aspiring acolytes, again all male. The group [\[unconnected with the ONA: see Editorial Note, above\]](#) uses homosexual rites and although they may well have contact with the far right are highly unlikely to be capable of carrying out numerous murders as darkly hinted at."

In The Song of a Satanist, "Stephen Brown" - yet another Myatt pseudonym - writes:

Most Satanists cannot publish an autobiography, or even have a biography which relates their life in detail while they still live, for the simple reason that it would probably render them liable to prosecution by those asinine guardians of the even more stupid system of 'Law'. (Plus the fact that most wish to continue their sinister esoteric work in secret, to aid the sinister dialectic.) If this threat does not exist, then their life has not been Satanic enough.

Another demonstration of the convergence of fascism and occultism is found in the ONA's Temple 88, which is described as an instantiation of the "aryanist and national-socialist ideas/ideals of the Order of Nine Angles." The writings of "Temple 88" are recommended for higher initiates, having "reached the seventh stage (Saturn) of the septenary Tree of Wyrd," who are "assumed to be able to judge and understand why the usage of national-socialism and aryanism is implemented in the Order of Nine Angles ideological structure."

And what are the Nine Angles? A ceremonial means to manifest the "Dark Gods." And perhaps not surprisingly, here's where things get Lovecraftian:

The details that Lovecraft gives regarding 'calls' and rites are mostly fanciful and only in a few places does he inadvertently reveal the truth - for example, in his mention of the trapezohedron and 'Azathoth'. The key to travel along the passages between the star nexions is the Nine Angles and the key to the Nine Angles is the crystal tetrahedron which is activated by voice vibration. 'Azathoth' as described by Lovecraft, is a symbolic and distorted re-presentation of the intersection, in acausal space-time, of these astral star passages: a kind of galactic vortex or node. Those who journey there never return the same. Along the star passages the shells of long dead civilizations lie strewn. The Nine Angles (the key to contact both physical and astral) are re-presented in the septenary Star Game and it is through this symbolic re-presentation that the magick of the Dark Gods is made manifest. The rest, to the uninitiated, is sheer terror.

(Lt Col Michael Aquino has authored the Lovecraftian "Ceremony of the Nine Angles" for the Temple of Set, but disavows Myatt and the ONA's public embrace of human sacrifice.)

And since we've come this far, let's remind ourselves: according to the ONA, where do these "Dark Gods" reside?

The acausal universe itself may be described as that aspect of the cosmos bounded by acausal time and possessing more than three spatial dimensions; the causal universe may be described as that aspect of the cosmos bounded by causal, or linear, time and possessing three spatial dimensions at right angles to each other. The entities known to esoteric tradition as the Dark Gods are beings which exist in the acausal universe. Other such beings probably exist in the acausal realm, but the Dark Gods are known to us through having, at various times in our evolution, 'intruded' into our spatial universe.

As I've noted in an earlier post, the "acausal universe" recalls Michio Kaku's Parallel Worlds, in which he writes that "anyone who can tap into the fourth spatial dimension (or what is today called the fifth dimension, with time being the fourth) can indeed become invisible, and can even assume the powers normally ascribed to ghosts and gods." And interestingly, one of the things David Myatt may be said to be with some assurance is a student of physics.

In 2000 Myatt reputedly converted to Islam, and quickly became an advocate for al Qaeda "martyrdom operations." Though as he had often done, Myatt hid his previous associations by assuming an alias. He became "Abdul Aziz."

This story from February 16, 2003, entitled "Midland Nazi turns to Islam," was one of the first to make the connection between the "Koranic scholar," the neo-Nazi and the occultist:

A "Satanic Fuhrer" who urged neo-Nazis to fight a race war has turned full circle to become an Islamic fundamentalist.

Midland-based David Myatt, 51, was the political guru behind white supremacist group Combat 18 and has been the leading hardline Nazi intellectual in Britain since the 1960s.

Now the self-confessed Pagan and Adolf Hitler worshipper hails al Qaida leader Osama bin Laden as his inspiration and praises the World Trade Center attacks as acts of heroism...supporting suicide missions and urging young Muslims to take up Jihad.

"Turning full circle" always sounded to me like a lot of fuss to create the appearance of motion, while returning to one's starting point.

Is Myatt an agent provocateur, a shit-disturber who can't settle upon a radical philosophy, something more, or something less? It's difficult to assess motive, but consider that he has been arrested numerous times for such things as writing and disseminating "practical terrorist guides" on suspicion of conspiracy to murder. These cases have always been dropped due to "lack of evidence." Does he enjoy protection? The record is suggestive that he does. And if it appears so, then we should ask the next question: Why?

One Muslim internet user told the Sunday Mercury that Myatt, who has an IQ of 187, had convinced other users he was an Islamic scholar with his eloquent arguments backed with Koranic verses. He said: "After September 11 Abdul Aziz's messages started to become more extreme.

"But because he wrote with authority, many less-knowledgeable Muslims thought he was a holy man and began supporting his fundamentalist views. When his true identity was revealed by other users on the site, he changed his online name to Abdul bin Aziz and then al Haqq."

Myatt may seem to have flitted from one politico-religious philosophy to another, but there is a terrible thread of continuity and rigour through his life and writings that suggests he is much more than a disingenuous provocateur. Naziism and Islamicism have served, in turn, as modalities of disruption for what remains at core an occult working to sow general chaos and division - the necessary passage of "Helter Skelter" to break down the Old Order, before the founding of the New.

So again: whose interests are served by there being a David Myatt? Is he is own man - or men - or does he belong to someone else? Or is it something else - an intelligence service perhaps, or something, say, acausal? "

Commentary On Nine Angles of Separation

There are three matters of note regarding the 2005 article. The first matter is that it was reproduced in full in a 2016 post, together with a link to the 2009 item, on the then popular 600club 'satanic' forum generating 10 pages of replies, as threads on that forum about the O9A often did.

Since this came up as part of another thread I thought it deserved it's own post.

Many neophytes come here seeking the secret knowledge of the ONA. Others claim ONA affiliation while knowing little more about ONA than what they read on the Blackwood site. What I can't really get my mind around is how much reasonably correct information can be found on the internet.

A quick google of "Anton Long, Combat 18, BNP" yielded what follows. I can neither confirm nor deny any of this. I simply offer up as a thing found on the internet, which in some cases is much like a thing found in your belly button. However, I do believe that it of some value and may explain a few things that I thought people in this game just knew.

To wit:

As lifted from <http://www.cosmicbeing.info/rumours/wells-nine-angles.html>

<https://web.archive.org/web/20160817185256/http://www.the600club.com/topic26361-1.html>

The second matter is that it hints that Myatt may be an agent provocateur for the British Sate; a meme which has been both resurrected over the years by means of the internet (and in recent times on social media) and also mocked. The third matter is that it shows that even in 2005 the now ubiquitous misleading tropes, {1} the propaganda and unproven allegations, about the O9A had already spread to countries other than Britain. Among the tropes, many which relate to David Myatt (DM), are:

i) That DM is Anton Long;

ii) That DM has "flitted from one politico-religious philosophy to another";
iii) That DM uses a variety of pseudonyms, such "al-Haqq" and Stephen Brown;
iv) That DM and/or the O9A can be 'understood' by reading and/or quoting what others have said or written about DM or about the O9A, especially if the quote or quotations or writings are from the mass Media (such as newspapers) or from some politician, or from some 'policy group' which has a political agenda and/or which is financed by some government or by some wealthy corporation, or is from a tertiary source {2} such as the now ubiquitous 'wikipedia' which in the matter of individuals and groups is a collection of the opinions of others and which relies on the fallacy of appeal to authority.

¶ In the primary matter of 'understanding' the O9A by reading and/or quoting what others have said or written about it, that is now the norm, even among academics who have yet to publish an analysis of the O9A based on its primary sources. {3} Furthermore, the 'black propaganda' produced and disseminated by an FBI asset turned agent provocateur has, since 2018, become the source by which the O9A is defined, described, and judged. {4}

¶ In the matter of David Myatt=Anton Long, no one in over forty years has provided any probative evidence in support of the allegation. {5}

¶ In the matter of Myatt "flitting from one politico-religious philosophy to another" the facts are that Myatt was a National Socialist (a neo-nazi for thirty years (1968-1998) then a Muslim for around ten years (1998-2008/2009) and finally (2011-present) a philosopher who developed an individualistic weltanschauung he termed 'the numinous way of pathei-mathos'. {6} Which is neither "flitting from one politico-religious philosophy to another" nor a "search for meaning and purpose" {7} because he, in his own words, a primary source,

"foolishly believed I had already found a meaning and a purpose: for thirty years in National-Socialism and then for ten years in Islam. In 1998 I turned away from National- Socialism to Islam because during a decade (1988-1998) of foreign travels the culture, the Muslims, of the Muslim lands - and especially of Egypt - slowly, almost imperceptibly, impressed me as did, and perhaps more so, travels alone in the Sahara Desert where I wordlessly felt intimations of Being, of The Acausal, of The-Unity, of The One-The Only (τὸ ἕν), of The Monas (μονάς) which 'acausal' Being Muslims called Allah and Christians called God." {8}

All of which tropes are indicative of how the majority, and most politicians and governments, seem to have unknowingly become inquinators, {9} having travelled far away from the civilized principles of fairness and thus (i) from the principle of giving the accused the benefit of the doubt until probative evidence proves otherwise, and (ii) from the principle of not speaking or writing about a subject or about a person that one has no long-term personal knowledge of.

This modern travelling is aided and abetted by modern rapid impersonal means of communication such as the internet and by a lack of personal learning based on research using primary sources.

{1} Trope: a figure of speech (verbal and written) which is far fetched; a motif, a motive or theme, that represents something which is illogical (such as a fallacy of reasoning) or which is unproven or hearsay or propaganda. The fallacies of reasoning include the appeal to authority and ad populum.

qv. John Dryden, Juvenal (1697) "Where the Trope is far fetch'd, and hard, 'tis fit for nothing but to puzzle the Understanding."

¶ The main themes of his post-2014 'black propaganda' were inciting terrorism and armed insurrection against Western governments, especially America; inciting and supporting the patriarchal ethos and in particular supporting the macho principle of 'might is right', misogyny, rape, paedophilia, and sexual abuse.

Regarding O9A primary texts, in the matter of sexual abuse:

Hence, there is not, and cannot be, any such thing as "Satanic" child-abuse: there can be no child-hood 'initiation', no participation by children under a certain age in rituals, and no abuse, by adult Satanists, of children. This latter is important - Satanism is concerned with the individual gaining self-mastery and self-understanding. The abuser (whether of children, drugs or pleasures) is swayed by mostly unconscious desires and impulses - they may manipulate and try to control others who are susceptible, but they cannot control themselves, or even begin to understand their 'darker' side. In short, they are weak - and generally rather pathetic - individuals, although they may hide behind a "mask" or a "role". Such people are not Satanists, but rather failures. The Satanist aspires to self-mastery, self-overcoming; to knowledge ...

O9A primary source:
Satanism and Child-Abuse. 1989
qv. Nation and Race: The Developing Euro-American Racist Subculture, page 125
Northeastern University Press, 1998

In regard to the macho principle of 'might is right':

"The doctrine Might is Right - variously expressed in texts and writings such as those by the pseudonymous Ragnar Redbeard, by Nietzsche, and by proponents of what is known as social Darwinism - is the doctrine, the philosophy (or more correctly, the instinct, the raison d'être) of the cowardly bully for whom instinct, mere brute physical strength, or superior weaponry, or superior numbers, command respect and enable them to intimidate and bully others and so get their own way [...]"

Why the doctrine of the bully? Because those individuals who adhere to this doctrine, consciously or otherwise, lack both manners and culture (that is, they lack refinement, good breeding, and self-control) and as a modern archetype they represent nothing so much as brutish talking animals who walk upright and who possess a very high opinion of themselves; and an opinion that is more delusion than reality. Perhaps most importantly, such individuals do not possess that instinct for disliking rottenness that is the mark of the evolved, the aristocratic, the cultured, human being. Thus are they akin to uncultured barbarians." The De-Evolutionary Nature of Might is Right, included in Nine Classic O9A Texts, https://archive.org/download/classic-o9a-texts-9_202112/classic-o9a-texts-9.pdf

In regard to misogyny, paedophilia, and rape:

"It was assumed, correctly as it transpired, that few if any people would seek the truth by researching the primary sources, the manuscripts and texts, which expound our philosophy and which reveal the exact opposite of what such propaganda declaims: which is that we regard such things as misogyny, rape and paedophilia as detestable, dishonourable; as deeds of uncultured brutes and in the case of rape and paedophilia as making the perpetrators candidates for culling." An Aristocratic Ethos: An Interview With Anton Long, included as Appendix III in Misunderstanding Denotata In The Esoteric Philosophy of Anton Long, <https://archive.org/download/part2-denotata-o9a-v3a/part2-denotata-o9a-v3a.pdf>

In regard to rape, the following text provides a real-life case as an example of persons who could be culled: <https://web.archive.org/web/20210516053858/https://omega9alpha.files.wordpress.com/2015/12/culling-o9a-code-v3.pdf>
